

1994 FACT SHEET

INTRODUCTION

The Juvenile Probation Department is divided into 5 primary divisions: Administration, Probation Services, Juvenile Hall, Log Cabin Ranch School, and Community Services.

- ◆ The annual budget of $20,734,000 represents approximately 0.7% of the public safety portion of the City and County's total budget of approximately $3 billion.
- ♦ There are 298 budgeted positions for the Department including 84 probation officers and 107 counselors.
- ◆ The Department received $4,245,00 0 in state subvention and $36,000 was collected in fines and fees.
- ♦ More than 5,600 referrals were provided with intake and referral services.

- ◆ Probation officers conducted court investigations; prepared court reports and related materials for 1,920 petitions filed with the Juvenile Court.
- ★ The average supervision caseload per deputy is 50. The average number on supervision is 1,100.
- ♦ Status offender services including shelter are contracted to the private sector at an approximate annual cost of $561,600.
- ◆ Juvenile Hall provided temporary detention for 3,085 youth. Juvenile Hall has a rated capacity of 132; the actual average daily population was 127. The average length of stay is 23 days.
- ♠ A residential facility for males committed by the Court is located in La Honda and is known as Log Cabin Ranch School. There were 99 com-

- mitments and 71 graduates. The average daily population is 40.
- A community services program provided dispositional alternatives for the Court and a sense of responsibility for the youth.
- ♦ The Volunteer Auxiliary provides a host of services to Youth Guidance Center children that are not provided for by General Funds.
- The department contracts with community-based organizations to provide home detention, monitoring, counseling, case management, cultural awareness classes and peer counseling.

MISSION STATEMENT:

The purpose of the Juvenile Probation Department of San Francisco is to protect the public by providing for the treatment and rehabilitation of those youth of San Francisco who have been identified and referred by the courts, enabling them to lead productive, crime free lives and to realize their full potential. The department will accomplish this in the least restrictive manner commensurate with public safety and while working with the family of the youth whenever possible.

U.C. BERKELEY LIBRARIES

Edgar Flowers, Jr.
Chief Juvenile Probation Officer
375 Woodside Avenue
San Francisco, CA 94127
(415) 753-7800

It is the department's determination to increase citizen participation in the probation department's activities. If you need more information or have time or goods you would like to contribute, we welcome your interest and your call.